

Anita Chopra, MD

Dr. Chopra attended medical school in India - Guru Gobind Singh Medical College, Punjab, India. She is an internal medicine physician at UW Medicine Shoreline with a focus on geriatrics - being multilingual has helped her develop relationships with patients. Dr. Chopra is the chair of the American College of Physicians Primary Care Council as well as the co-chair of the ACP International Medical Graduate Council. She is also part of the Healthcare Equity, Diversity, and Inclusion Committee at UW Medicine. She is passionate about community outreach, and for the past nine years has been helping organize free health camps for the community annually, providing comprehensive preventive care to the underserved. Additionally, she does public health-focused workshops and webinars for the community. Dr. Chopra and her husband have two girls and live in Bellevue. Her daughters are her partners in helping the community.